

Hi, {{ contact.FIRSTNAME }}

Rahm Report

As we move into summer, The Root community will be going through numerous changes. Changes can be hard but amazing all at the same time! We spent most of the weekend working in Austin and I was astonished at all the changes I saw in one of my favorite cities! It made me sad because some things were do different but at the same time it was exciting to see so many new and beautiful businesses and partnerships.

If we never went through changes, we would never grow and evolve as people or as businesses. So many times, people and companies stick to their original routine and never branch out to see what is new and exciting all around them. I am so thankful to be part of the Root community where we celebrate our foundations, and we honor them but also evolve into new amazing things.

I love how Clean Slate, Restore, and Zero-In are foundational products that give people support so they can become as great as possible from the inside out! But I am equally happy about the Re-live Greens, Natural Barrier Support, and the Give me Back my Youth products! We need to keep giving our bodies different ways to support the eradication of bad things and the optimization of good things in the body! We must continue to strive to be out very best. We have one body that is what we live in until the day we die. There is not anything more important.

This week we will transition to the Root University. We are also changing some of the thing about our partnership with one of the societies we partner with at Root and I am very excited. I still get to work with all the Drs and grow the research with our partnership with International Science Nutrition Society. But more Drs will be added and even additional brilliance with diversification of growing our experts. This will be fun for all of us! We even get to partner with "Under the Red Chandelier," and give out free Root products, clothes, and jewelry. This will be a blast!

I hope the Root Brands products have given numerous positive changes to the inside of your body and to the outside of your personal and professional life! BECAUSE you are important, and I know that. We know that at Root Brands! Thank you for being part of our community! Hold on to your seats as we continue to change and be more beautiful than EVER.

Much Love!
Dr. Christina Rahm

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

We have launched our new Customer Service

Contacting Customer Service

Management platform. We are very excited to increase our level of interactions with you. We will be launching this in phases.

Out Of Stock/Shipping Delays

Zero In - Due to the overwhelming demand and to ensure that we continue to serve our RPS members we have opened up Zero-In, Duo Pack, and The Family Pack for RPS orders only. All customers can create an RPS order of any of the above items. We have another very large batch of Zero-In currently being produced.

Australia/New Zealand - We have finally got word that Zero-In has been released from customs! We also have another batch arriving this week. All Zero-In should start shipping out this week. We are so very sorry for the delays.

Canada - We have been having difficulties with our warehouse in Ottawa and the receiving of Give Me Back My Youth. It was stated that they received it but we received false information. Friday they also experienced a blackout and we could not get any information from them. We are hoping to have the inventory loaded in this week.

EU - We are fully stocked with the exception of Give Me Back My Youth which is on its way to fulfill all of the orders that were placed.

Please reach out if you have any questions

SCIENCE CORNER

Hemp Seeds

are remarkably nutritious and rich in protein, healthy fats, and various minerals. They contain high amounts of vitamin E, phosphorus, potassium, sodium, magnesium, sulfur, iron, and zinc. Hemp seeds can reduce the risk of heart disease because they are a great source of arginine and gamma-linolenic acid. They are rich in healthy fats which may benefit skin diseases and provide relief from eczema and other skin disorders. Hemp seeds may also reduce the symptoms associated with PMS and menopause due to their high levels of gamma-linolenic acid. They are also a good source of both insoluble and soluble fiber. Insoluble fiber adds bulk to the stool and may help food pass through the gut. Soluble fiber provides beneficial nutrients for the bacteria in the digestive tract and may help reduce spikes in blood sugar and aid to regulate cholesterol levels. Hemp seeds are easy to add to your diet and can be added to smoothies, yogurt, oatmeal, salads, or over rice or vegetables.
