1.)First, the basic gameplay. The basic features for RPG games are a basic stat growth and leveling system, and a battle interface. RPG has both a basic stat growth that you can take advantage of and a basic leveling system to let you continue playing. At the beginning of each map, you start with very low stats and gradually gain more stats by leveling up. In this game, there are three basic stats (Strength, Stamina, and Wisdom) and three basic magic (Aura, Ether, and Flame). As you level up, you gain new Magic and new Magic modifiers. In the beginning, you start with small stat modifications, but as you level up, you gain different stat modifications for the same stat, to give you more choices for what you will make your character do. There are also learning points after each map, to let you study your accumulated knowledge and increase your level. On top of that, you have items to give you new abilities and modify your equipped skills. There are even some items that let you gain a higher stat. Of course, your leveling up is also connected to your equipment, and you can gain skill points by using more expensive weapons. So, from the beginning, you level up to continue your progress. 2.)Combat (1) (1) Auto attacks: To attack automatically, you can press the left mouse button. The attack range is limited, so if you are further than 60 ft. away, there is a chance that your attack won't activate. If the enemy is in your range, you are able to see the size of its health. If the target is a boss monster, you are given the chance to get a skill when you attack. (2) Skill Attacks: You can manually activate skills by pressing the hot key. There are various skills such as the dragon's breath, which deals a lot of damage to the enemy, and the wheel of fire which deals a lot of damage to the enemies in the area around you. After using the skill, you can return to battle by pressing the hot key again. After using the skill three times, you can leave your default stance to equip the tool for the skill that you use. Like I mentioned before, a lot of items that you get during the game allow you to modify your skills. You can use a skill modifier to increase the effects of the skill used. If you

Electron vortex beams (EVBs) have attracted a great deal of research interest due to their size reduction feature and their various potential applications. Recently, a few experiments on EVBs with strong external fields, such as a magnetic field, have been conducted. In this paper, we describe, for the first time to our knowledge, the time evolution of EVBs with an external magnetic field. We show that the magnetic field can effectively generate the motion of EVBs from head to tail during propagation and significantly influence the spin structure of the EVB beam. We also show that the transverse magnetic field can suppress the spin-dependent scattering between the spin up and down components of EVBs, but the longitudinal magnetic field can lead to the scattering.Q: Filter a list using selected file: C# I'm trying to filter a list of Items using a file that can contain one of the specific items in the list as a substring. The problem is, i'm not being able to save the filter parameters inside an object so that it can be reloaded when the application closes. Do you have any idea how to create this object so that I can filter the list from the file each time I run the application? Or, is there a way to save the list filtrated so that when I run the application again it appears the same filtered list? The string that contains the filtered elements has an unique character to identify it, but the list items are common to all the strings. A: I resolved the
